

Managed Security Information and Event Management

There's no such thing as a one-size-fits-all SIEM solution. Your business may not need all the features that another business requires, so that's why we created our Managed Security Information and Event Management, or mSIEM, solution.

What is it?

A SIEM solution detects incidents that otherwise can go unnoticed. The core capabilities are log event collection and management, the ability to analyze log events and other data across various sources, and operational capabilities such as incident management, dashboards and reporting. It's an important part of your security portfolio.

But there's no such thing as a one-size-fits-all SIEM solution. Your business may not need all the features that another business requires. That's why we created our Managed Security Information and Event Management, or mSIEM, solution. Utilizing products and services from our wide range of security partners, our mSIEM is custom tailored to the security needs and budget constraints of every organization. From our core solution to our most robust system, you get the right mix of LRS expertise and partners' products.
